Last week, I visited Sheikh Abdullah Al-Salem Cultural Centre with my friends. It is one of the world's largest museum complexes. It is located in Al-Shaab area in Hawally in Kuwait. It is 127.000 square meters. It was opened for visitors on March 14, 2018. They can stay all the day there. It is named after the late Sheikh Abdullah Al-Salem Al-Sabah who was the 11th ruler of Kuwait, the first Amir of modern Kuwait.

Sheikh Abdullah Al-Salem Cultural Centre consists of six main buildings; the Natural History Museum, the Science Museum, the Space Museum, the Arabic Islamic Science Museum, Fine Arts Centre and the Theatre. From all the museums, my favourite was the Human Body of the Science and Technology Museum. There are different sports activities in the lower section of that building. There is a 15-metre running track where you could run and compare your running with well-known people like Usain Bolt, the famous Jamaican runner who is a world record holder.
