- Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Mo Farah was born in Mogadishu, Somalia, on 23 March 1983. He moved to England at the age of eight to join his father in London. On arrival, he only knew a few words of English. Now, just over twenty years later, he has become Britain's greatest ever long distance runner.

Mo's athletic talent was recognised at secondary school, but what he really wanted to do was to become a car mechanic, or play for Arsenal football club. Mo started competing in English school athletic championships, and won his first title at the age of fourteen. Since then, he has won every race at 5,000 and 10,000 metres.

At the London 2012 Olympics, Mo won both the 5,000 and 10,000 metres races, and gave the gold medals to his twin daughters. The following year, he won the same two events at the World Championships, becoming double Olympic and World Champion. Mo takes training very seriously, and believes that it is the key to his success. He runs 120 miles a week and does a lot of weight-lifting – he can lift one and a half times his bodyweight.

Mo is a hard working Muslim and normally prays before a race. He describes his diet as boring – pasta, vegetables and grilled chicken twice a day, every day. For years he's also eaten some dark chocolate for energy. He celebrated his Olympic golds with a burger, his first one that year! Mo has a famous victory celebration sign. When he wins a race he does a 'Mobot', placing both hands on his head so his arms form the letter M.
