Intelligent parrots are also known for their beautiful colours and lovely patterns. They have special toes pointing forward and backward; they help them climb trees easily. Parrots live in warm countries. There are about 350 different kinds of parrots. The smallest is the lovebird. It is only 13 cm long. The biggest is the macaw. It is 100 cm long.

Parrots live in groups. They work together to find food, raise their babies, and help one another. They usually eat fruit, but they sometimes eat seeds and nuts. Parrots can live for a long time. Some parrots can even live up to 80 years or more, making them long-term friends for their owners. However, life is not easy for parrots in the wild. People catch baby parrots and sell them. They are very expensive. They are about $1,000 each. Sometimes people cut down trees with nests. This is a big problem because some parrots only have one baby every two years.
