- Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Detective Fox is a clever and sharp police officer. One day, he was called to solve a hard problem at the city's big museum. An expensive piece had gone missing from the museum room, and the keeper was trying hard to find it.

Detective Fox arrived at the room and began his search. He carefully studied the room, looking for clues. He saw a few things out of place: first, dirt on the glass case, then a small piece of cloth on the floor, and a small footprint near the exit.

Fox interviewed the cleaning man and the keeper, putting together their stories. He learnt that a strange person was seen near the expensive piece just before it was stolen. Using his good and extreme skills, Fox followed the clues, which led him to a hidden room in the museum.

In the hidden room, Fox found the missing piece and caught the thief. The thief told what happened, explaining that he wanted to sell the expensive piece for a lot of money. Thanks to Detective Fox's quick thinking and sharp eyes, the piece was returned to the museum, and the thief was caught by the police. The museum is safe once again, and Detective Fox is called a hero.
