Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Ahmed enjoyed playing in the park. One afternoon, while he was playing there, it rained heavily. He ran into an old local library because it was the nearest building to him. At the library, he saw the librarian Mr. Saad, who greeted him warmly with a welcoming smile.

At first, Ahmed was sad because he couldn't play in the park as usual. He found nothing to do except walk around the library and explore the shelves. The colorful covers of the books attracted him greatly. Mr. Saad suggested a book about adventures for him to read. Ahmed was interested and started reading the book. The amazing stories of the book took him to new places.

The unplanned, but effective, visit to the library encouraged Ahmed to come again and again. He read more books and stories which made him a big fan of dragons and superheroes. He learned about different people and their lives. He also read many kinds of books, from science fiction to history. Reading helped him understand others better. Books changed Ahmed's life so much that his grades in different subjects have improved. He kept reading and discovering new things. The library became his favourite place, and Mr. Saad his favourite friend.

Ahmed realized that books were not just stories, but keys to new worlds, ideas, and possibilities. He was grateful for the library and the magic of reading. As time passed, he grew into an interested and caring young reader. Ahmed's journey with books has just begun, and he was excited to see where it would take him in the future.
